Geoff Short – Chair

Good day to you all and I trust you had a pleasant Easter break. We are coming towards the end of the year for our u3a group and next month will be the Annual General Meeting. This is a time when your existing committee stands down and you have the opportunity of either supporting them for a further year or kicking us out!

Those members who make up the committee have all indicated their willingness to stand for a further year, but we do have a number of positions that need to be filled. In general, members are invited to join the committee and then can take up a position within that committee if they so wish. The particular roles that are vacant (see Poster on Page 6) include:

Website controller – we need someone who has knowledge of websites and who can keep our own site up to date. David Mummery is the current holder of this role but, now he is living in Sussex, we need to find a replacement.

Vice Chair – it is now some years since anyone filled this role. The vice chair would stand in for the Chair if required, introducing speakers at the monthly meeting for instance. It would also be a stepping stone towards becoming Chair themselves in the future.

Member's representative – again, this is a role that has been vacant for some time. It is really a name that members can contact if they have a specific issue to raise.

Leading on from this, I should point out that May will be the start of my final year as Chair (unless I'm kicked out in May!) We need to be thinking of a replacement in May 2024 so, if anyone is willing to take on the role, it would be good if they could say so now.

Also, please be aware that we are making a small charge for refreshments from this month – 20p only!

Audley End House is an English Heritage house and has a history dating back to the early 12th century. It went into decline in the late 18th century and was reduced in size. In recent history the Polish SOE trained there from 1941 to 1944. There is extensive information on the website.

Primrose Day – April 19th

Primrose Day honours the memory of our first and to date only Jewish Prime Minister, Benjamin (Dizzy) Disraeli, 1st Earl of Beaconsfield, who died on this day in 1881.

In the late 19th Century and early 20th Century, people wore primroses on this day to remember him. The statue of Lord Beaconsfield in Parliament square was also decorated with primroses as was his and his wife's grave at St Michael & All Angels, Hughenden Parish Church.

Born to Italian-Jewish parents on December 21st 1804 in London, it was in 1817 that Dizzy's father decided to baptise all of his children as Christians. Without this conversion, Dizzy would have been unable to pursue his chosen career as Jews were excluded from parliament until 1858. In 1837, he was elected as Tory candidate for Maidstone and remained in parliament until 1881. He became Chancellor of the Exchequer (twice); for a short time (1852-1852) and then for three years (1865 -1868). A similar pattern followed when he was promoted to Prime Minister (1868 – 1868).

After four years as Opposition Leader, he was re-elected as Prime Minister (1874 – 1880). In 1876, he took his seat in the House of Lords until his death on 19th April 1881 (aged 76) in his London house away from his country home Hughenden Manor now owned by the National Trust.

From 1868, Benjamin Disraeli oversaw a shift towards the emergence of two parties, each with their own, coherent policies. The polarisation was accentuated by the mutual loathing of Disraeli and Liberal leader William Ewart Gladstone. In 1874, Mrs Gladstone was heard to say “that Jew has become prime minister” whilst in 1868 Queen Victoria had written “Mr Disraeli is Prime Minister. A proud thing for a man risen from the people.” He became her favourite politician, although she began their association with reservations about his exotic appearance, dress and style. Domestically, Disraeli's government concentrated on social reforms. He codifies the law on public health and passed laws to prevent labour exploitation and recognise trades unions. Such measures were mostly uncontroversial, and were described as “dull, suet pudding legislation” in contrast to Gladstone's zealous reformism.

Disraeli was most interested in foreign policy. He used the international crisis in the Near East to assert Britain's importance in Europe, culminating in the Congress of Berlin in 1878. His strong anti-Russian policy in the East, and the passage of the Empress of India Act in 1876, pleased Queen Victoria.

Benjamin Disraeli and Queen Victoria had a strong friendship. When he died, she sent a wreath of primroses to his funeral with a note stating that they were “his favourite flowers.” People assumed that Queen Victoria was referring to Disraeli. However, it is now believed she meant her late husband Prince Albert. I can find no reference for decoration of Disraeli's statue (MP for Buckinghamshire 1852 - 1876) in Market Square on Primrose Day.
